

COLD STONE

Shorelines & Retaining Walls, Inc.

Front Traditional fieldstone reinforces the water's edge. This shoreline had been protected with a creosote timber wall, a material now known to be very toxic to the environment. That wall was removed and this appealing boulder riprap put in place to bolster the shoreline.

Below This naturalistic boulder retaining wall near Bald Eagle Lake is built from trap rock. The homeowner wanted his wooded landscape to look like a setting you might find along Minnesota's North Shore.

Properly constructed retaining walls and shorelines will immediately stop the natural process of erosion and preserve your precious property. Cold Stone uses naturally cut glacier-smoothed boulders to create a beautiful, maintenance-free protection system that will last a lifetime.

Boulders—whether trap rock, granite, or river rock—provide the functionality you need and add beauty and value far beyond what ordinary retaining or riprap materials provide. Cold Stone Shorelines and Retaining Walls, Inc. can turn your shoreline, hillside, or yard into a landscape showcase.
